THINKING OUT LOUD

By H. M. L., SR.

It seems very doubtful if there can be peace in Palestine soon. It seems doubtful if even the sacred shrines of Jerusalem, Moslem, Christian or Jew, will be left standing when the peace of exhaustion finally comes. The British are moving out May 15th. As they move out, Jews or Arabs move in. It becomes apparent, if anything is done to halt this war, we must do it.

Personally we re not proud of the part our country has played in Palestine. The switch from partition to United Nations trusteeship was unfortunate, to put it mildly. The reason for the switch was undoubtedly the danger to American oil companies operating in Saudi Arabia. If the Arabs declared a holy war these concessions were endangered. So we temporized and while doing so the war between Jews and Arabs waxed greater.

England has not been helpful in this Near Eastern crisis. In giving up her mandate, she might have cast about for a better method than pulling out on a given date. Undoubtedly, from a business point of view Great Britian should be out. The occupation of Palestine was a drain on manpower and money. but after all that is only part of the story. The British sponsored the back to the holy land movement of Jews the world over. They came; they were helped to occupy the land. This means buying land, irrigating it, putting in dams, pipelines and generally cultivating it for food, oranges, figs, grapes and all the fruits that do well in a hot country with good soil and water.

Undoubtedly the Arab land owners were glad to sell the land and, but for sentiment, would still be glad. The Jewish population as everywhere is thrifty, diligent, shrewd, and good neighbors. They have earned and paid for their holdings in Palestine. They have spent millions of dollars improving the land. They have built a modern city, Tel Aviv, on the Mediterranean. They do not now propose to be dispossessed. They will fight to retain what they have won by hard work.

Since the Crusades, and long before, the Arabs have held Palestine. They live mainly by flocks and herds. Many of them are nomads. By and large they are a backward race, naturally warlike, suspicious, proud and fanatical. They have watched the increase of the Jewish population with dismay and resentment. Probably if they could retain the power to govern Palestine, all of it, they would be satisfied. It is something to consider, even if the government were more nominal than actual.

The struggle for power between Arabs and Jews comes at an unfortunate time. The British are sore beset. The war has robbed them of their wealth. From a creditor nation they have become a debtor. A debtor cuts off all those expenses that bring nothing but more debt. Palestine since World War II has been a drain on the British taxpayers. It had to stop if the British home island was to survive. It is only the callous disregard of principles involved that shocks the western world. We doubt if this would have happened under Winston Churchill.

One thing we can be sure of. The United States will not permit the Jews to lose their homes. We have blundered sadly. Many lives have been lost due to our blundering. But since we have blundered we are in duty bound to stop the fighting there. In time, either with or without the United Nations, probably the latter, we will establish a government in Palestine. We will take over the burden from Great Britain and reduce the country to order. It may be France will help, or that the British will give a little aid, but our blunders have made it obligatory on us to halt the fighting.

If for no other reason, we must undertake, temporarily at least, establishing a peace in Palestine. The Russians will step in if we do not. We do not want the Russians sitting down by the Mare Nostrum.

LAST CHANCE FOR GROUPS TO BID FOR STATE CENTENNIAL FUNDS

NEVADA CITY: The Nevada County Centennial Committee is now sending out its last and final appeal for the year 1948-49 for groups to send in their Centennial plans if they involve State Funds. The local committee, headed by Elmer Stevens of Grass Valley and recently appointed by the Sierra-Nevada Chamber of Commerce acts as a screening board for applications to the State of California for moneys appropriated by the County of Nevada for Centennials.

Chairman Stevens points out that over eight news articles and 30 personal letters have been directed to organizations to get in their plans and applications for the year and so far the only group to respond is the Nevada County Historical Society with a request of $2500 for work on the museum in Nevada City, a museum in North San Juan, restoration of the old Chinese Joss House in Grass Valley and historical publications. Added to this is the work undertaken by the Grass Valley Lions Club in making and placing historical markers. States Chairman Stevens, "Now is about the last time for this fiscal year to apply for funds. There has been lots of talk, but little action. . . . If Nevada County wants to get its share of the $200,000 set up by the Legislature for Centennials, now is the time to act, not after they are over."

THE - Diary of a 49'er

FROM THE BOOK EDITED BY C. L. CANFIELD

I told Marie about my visit to the couple on Round Mountain and she proposed that we ride over and see them. We found them at home and still working the tunnel, and the man, while not particularly glad to see us, was decent enough to ask us to get off our horses and come inside the cabin. I don't think he liked the idea of Marie getting acquainted with the woman, although he made no objection. She was as shy as a deer and no doubt ashamed of her man's dress—she was still wearing overalls and shirt—and we left them together while he and I went outside for a chat. He was as curious as ever about what was going on outside and kept me busy for an hour posting him up to date on the news. Then we were called in to luncheon, which Marie had helped to get ready, and we had a nice meal. I noticed the woman's eyes were red and that she had been crying. Marie stepped on my foot and I had sense enough to say nothing awkward. When we bid them good-bye the women kissed each other and Marie promised to see her again soon. As soon as we were out of earshot she said indignantly: "Oh! he is what you call ze great brute; no he does not beat her, she say he is not cruel, but she is all ze same as one prisoner and her heart it is for to break,

CLAIR ENGLE INTRODUCES FREE GOLD BILL

WASHINGTON, D. C. April 29: Congressman Clair Engle (D) of California, today introduced a bill to permit gold in any form to be "bought, held, sold or traded upon the open market within the United States, its territories and possessions, including Alaska, for any purpose whatsoever." The measure further provides that gold may be freely exported and imported without duty, taxes, licenses, permits or any restrictions whatsoever.

In introducing the bill Engle declared he had four purposes in mind:

First, to end the inflationary effect of all gold going into the United States Treasury as it does now; second, to stabilize the position of the American dollar by showing its true relationship to an ounce of gold in a free market; third, to give the people of America a historically reliable repository of value for their savings in these times of inflation and threatened deflation; and, fourth, to give the gold producers the benefit of a higher price for their product in a free market, and thus by increasing total gold production increase the national wealth.

He asserted that he was sure that people would welcome the opportunity to buy gold as a safeguard of their savings.

"There is no place to invest money now," he said, "where it can be safe from inflation or deflation. With gold you don't gamble—the value will always be there."

"The measure," he added "will not change the law under which the Government buys all gold offered at $35.00 an ounce, and will not change the monetized value of gold." However, he predicted that a free market would result in a higher price in private transactions due to the desire of people to buy and hold gold.

"It is about time," he continued, "for the American Government to get back into a sound currency. The only way that can be done is to give the American people a chance to reflect the true position of the American dollar in terms of an ounce of gold. Further, since we are so uneasy about inflation we can stop a little of it by letting gold get in private hands rather than forcing it into the Treasury—where it finally ends up in the form of bank credit money and therefore more inflation."

Engle pointed out that the measure which he has introduced was suggested recently by Mr. Francis H. Brownell of the American Smelting and Refining Company in an open letter to the Committes on Banking and Currency of the Senate and House. It is also supported by many of the country's leading economists. In addition, the measure is sponsored by all the mining organizations in California, which have set up a joint committee to support the legislation, headed by Mr. Neil O'Donnell, Manager of the Idaho-Maryland Mine in Grass Valley, California.

Colnar, Assembly Candidate, Announces Election Platform

JOSEPH COLNAR
Candidate for Assembly

ROSEVILLE: So the people may know the aims and desires of Joseph Colnar, Roseville Candidate for the state assembly to succeed Allen G. "Scoop" Thurman, now a state senator, the local man has issued a list of the main planks in his platform.

Colnar, Placer County Democratic Central Committee, currently a member of the Roseville city council and employee of the Southern Pacific Company, favors the following program:

1. Compulsory health insurance with Doctor Choice.
2. Reduction or abolishment of the Sales Tax.
3. Adequate low cost housing and easy term credit for the veteran and low income group.
4. Security from power shortages by early completion of the Central Valley Project and the immediate commencement of the Folsom Dam. Appropriations for the Folsom project to include transmission lines.
5. Security against old age, sickness and unemployment.
6. Broaden the Social Security Act.

When Colnar announced his candidacy he said:

"It is with a full realization that the district I seek to represent has many and varied interests that I am entering this campaign."

"My sincere desire is that I shall represent every section of the ten counties in the district, with full consideration given to the public welfare as a whole."

Mr. Colnar is married and has two daughters.

OBJECT TO DISCRIMINATION AGAINST SMALL OPERATORS

Local Lumbermen, meeting last night at the Veteran's Memorial Auditorium, enthusiastically continued with organization and plans of the Lumbermen's Protective Association and denounced Public Law S-273 as contrary to American principles of freedom of enterprise.

Claude E. Clark, chairman of the Board of Directors of the Nevada County unit of the association, presided. He opened the meeting by criticizing the Forest Service's policy of actively advocating the much disputed "Co-operative Sustained Yield Unit" as exemplified in the project at Woodleaf, Yuba County.

Roy Burris, of the Farm Bureau, said that his organization was opposed to the co-operative units in principle and practice. It was, he said, "absolutely monopolistic, contrary to the American way of life" and brought to a head the question of whether Americans would be a free or regimented people.

He called attention to the fact that, due to public presided. He opened the meting by criticizing the Forferred from a scheduled date in April until June 30th.

The next speaker was Ray Manwell, attorney for the nonprofit corporation which comprises the fiscal structure of the association. Manwell described the organization and its mushrooming growth. He pointed out that 77% of the land in Trinity County was owned by the Federal government and stated that 40% of all the land in California was owned by the government.

These acres, Manwell proposed, should be put on county tax rolls. Further, a major portion should be put up for sale to the people. The forest service's "lust for power" said Manwell tended to produce monoply and deprive, small operators of the "right to do business."

According to Manwell, Forest Service representatives had visited civic organizations which had passed resolutions condemning S-273 and sought to have them retract their statements. In this, he stated, they had been completely unsuccessful.

"Survival of the fittest, and the law of supply and demand, cannot be ignored simply because the forest service so dictates," said Manwell. "Bureaus have got to be curbed."

He questioned the constitutionaltiy of the S-273 law and said that legal measures would be taken to test the validity of the act and the Woodleaf contract.

Warren Shingle, secretary of the parent lumbermen's association next took the floor. He said that the co-operative sustained yield unit, if carried to a natural conclusion, would play into the hands of bigger and bigger lumber operators.

A monoply would eventually be reached by this process, Shingle said, and at this point the government would be ready to take over and state ownership would ensue.

Shingle characterized forest service employees as "paid servants paid by you to put you out of business." He urged every member of the association to write their views to their Senators and Representatives in Washington, and to advise their friends and associates to do the same.

Clair Ivey described the controversy which occurred last year when the forest service unsuccessfully sought the passage of a slash disposal ordinance by the County Board of Supervisors. David Maltman, president of the Nevada County Real Estate Board, spoke briefly, as did Warren Odell, president of the Board of Supervisors. Odell requested a copy of this law S-273 and stated that, while he did not wish to commit himself or the board to a course of action before formally hearing both sides, he was favorably impressed by what he had heard at the meeting.

Otto Schiffner, whose talk invoked spirited applause, said that America was "the last stand of democracy" and that it was our duty to keep it that way. He described the check and balance system of government and pointed out that the aim of the lumbermen's organization was to make it's plea for moderation heard in the halls of Washington.

Giving the forest service credit for wanting to do the right thing, Schiffner went on to say that, according to his calculations, there was a difference of just 8% in increment of lumber in favor of the co-operative sustained yield unit as compared with the situation as it is now administered.

"If the sustained yield system is so good for the big operators," he asked, "why can't it be made just as good for the little fellow?"

John Personini, who followed Schiffner as speaker, remarked on the patriotic aspects of the situation. Robert Dasmann, forest service executive, spoke briefly urging organization members to consider both sides of the question and to fully acquaint themselves with the forest service's position.

According to William Davis, Indian Flat rancher, a bill had just been passed calling for the construction of 10 million new

FISHERMEN GET LIMITS ON 1ST DAY

NEVADA CITY: Despite gloomy predictions of high water and poor fishing. John Neronde, of 3013 L Street, Sacramento, had his limit of trout by 11 A. M. Saturday.

For seven years in a raw Neronde has come ot Nevada City and caught his limit in Deer Creek in the heart of the little mining city. This year he pieced out his catch from Little Deer Creek, but most came from the clear mountain stream that flows through the city.

Russ Payne, a young angler of Nevada City, had his limit by 8:14 A. M. but he had an earlier start than Neronde, who did not arrive here until after 8 A. M.

Both fishermen declared the day was just right, fair and warmer, and the fish were hungry.

HARTMAN CAMPAIGN PLATFORM IS STRONG FOR AGRICULTURE

GRASS VALLEY: Louis Hartman, candidate for the Assembly from the sixth district, today issued the following statement regarding his stand on agricultural issues:

"The experience I have gained by contacting and doing business with farmers and as a member of the Nevada County Farm Bureau has given me an opportunity to learn the problems and needs of our agricultural interests. Farmers ,as a whole, consider their business as a profession. They have continually endeavored to eliminate inefficient methods of farming so that they would be in a position to receive a reasonable return on their labor. The farmer, like every other business, has to cope with increased costs. They believe they are entitled to a reasonable return on their investment the same as any other business and I believe they are entitled to it."

LOUIS HARTMAN

"Taxes in all forms play a major part in the cost of production of farm products. Taxes on farm acreage should not be assessed upon the highest type of production of which the land may be capable until it is economicallly feasible to use the land for such purposes. Such taxation would force farmers into production of crops which would ultimately result in an over-supply and prices of a ruinous nature."

"The farmers, even with all their troubles, did a marvelous job of supplying the civilian and armed forces throughout the entire war. The present condition of the world and the operation of the Marshall Plan will again tax them to the limit in their endeavor to fed starving peoples. I believe there is absolutely no necessity for them to completely readjust their business because of theoretical considerations."

"I also believe that farmers' co-operatives should be on the same basis as any other type of free enterprise. As long as taxation of ordinary businesses is on the basis of net profits, taxation of these co-operatives should be on that basis and no other."

"I believe motor vehicle regulations should be administered so as to facilitate peak movements of perishable crops and the convenient and economical movement of farm and lumber products and suplies to and from the farm and forest."

"I'm firmly convinced of the need for research which will improve the methods of production, distribution and marketing of farm products. To this end, I intend to support in the legislature the necessary appropriations to the University of California so that it will be able to carry on this necessary research and be able to properly disseminate the results to interested parties."

"I pledge my co-operation with the Department of Agriculture in its efficient and constructive administration of the laws affecting agriculture and the cattle industry of this state."

Louis Hartman seeks both the Republican and Democratice nominations in the June 1st primary in the 10 counties of the 6th Assembly District comprising Placer, Nevada, El Dorado, Alpine, Mono, Inyo, Amador, Calaveras, Tuolumne and Mariposa.

Just Wonderin'

I Wonder if it's really true
That brevity's the soul of wit,
For if it is, I surely know
How friends of mine might make a hit;
They say smart things and go their way
With none to praise them or acclaim,
While gagsters write a line or two,
And willy-nilly gain a name.

If brevity is the soul of wit, we shall hear little of that commodity, while the great American show is hoisting standards and preparing for verbal warfare. The gentlemen whose sombreros are in the ring, will not indulge in short, pithy statements of facts, figures and fancies, it is definitely their intent to say all and it is we, who must lend our ears.

Still, if brevity is truly the soul of wit, we must remember that campaign oratory is seldom either witty or soulful. The candidates will be so busy paying compliments to themselves, that they will have no time to waste words of wit or wisdom upon others. Sometimes and souls of both wit and wisdom may come into their own, but it will not during the sound and fury of a presidential campaign, and we cannot reasonably look for so great a miracle.

As a sample of brevity which some of our public speakers might follow, I offer a composition written years ago by my friend Sallie. Sallie was a valuable Miss and whenever she wrote papers for use in school or club functions, words bristled and paper was unduly consumed. Being asked to write a composition for a special occasion, she was given as her subject, the life of Socrates and cautioned to spare words and make her outline reasonably short. When the time came and Sallie was called upon to present her offering, she arose with a flourish, unfolded what appeared to be a lengthy document and read in clear, firm tones these

Medical Detective Story Revealed

BERKELEY: A technique 1,000 to 1,000,000 times more sensitive than the one already in use for detecting minute amounts of elements in tissues is offered by nuclear physics to researchers in biology and medicine, Dr. John H. Lawrece, Associate Professor of Medical Physics at the University of California revealed today.

Dr. Lawrence said that this technique. first applied in biology and medicine by Dr. Cornelius A. Tobias, biophysicist in the Donner Laboratory at the University of California, is still relatively untried and unused but offers some possibilities for the future.

The scientist said that the new technique involves the transmutation of elements in blood or tissue into radioactive forms of those elements. Such transmutations are accomplished by slow neutrons in the atomic piles.

For example, in one instance, cited by Dr. Lawrence, the blood of a leukemia patient was exposed in the pile. Analysis of the blood specimens after bombardment indicated that in the total blood volume of the patient there were 1½ micrograms of gold (one microgram is one millionth of a gram).

Dr. Lawrence said this technique has any applications in pharmacology and toxicology. For example, the method could be used in determining plasma iron, a factor needed in the diagnosis of anemia.

NEW PISTON RINGS

Will I save enough oil to justify the investment in new piston rings?

This question is one that car owners constantly are asking of service men, according to officials of National Automobile Club's Service Department. The answer is difficult. It depends upon how much oil is being consumed as a result of the present piston rings' defects, how long one intends to drive the car after the new rings are installed, and numerous other considerations.

But, taking into consideration not merely the saving on oil, but improved gasoline economy and the restoration of the car's power and pep, the investment usually is an extremely profitable one.

HAVE LIGHTS INSPECTED

"No motorist should start on a trip involving considerable night driving without having his car's lights gone over by a competent service man, preferably by the dealer handling the make of car", advises L. Veterans News

One out of five World War II veterans training under the G. I. Bill are preparing for a career in business administration and other general business fields according to Col. Thomas J. Cross, chief of the VA Branch 12 area (California, Arizona, Nevada and Hawaai).

A similar number are training for engineering and mechanical occupations.

Nearly one-tenth of all trainees are following agricultural pursuits.

The occupational fields are listed in a Veterans Administration study of the principal training courses of 2,000,000 veterans studying in schools and colleges and 546,000 training on-the-job on November 30,1947. The survey was released today.

Business Administration and other business courses rate first among the veterans attending schools and colleges, with more than 311, 000 studying in these fields. Engineering ranks second with 252,000 students. Agriculture, with 223,000 is third choice. The 85,000 preparing for teaching careers place education fourtht.

Of the veteran-students enrolled in colleges and universities when the survey was made, 287, 000 in liberal arts courses had not reported their major courses of study.

Among the veterans taking job training, almost 94,000 are training to be mechanics and repairmen. About 77,000 are taking training in business courses, with another 69,000 enrolled for managerial training (other than business and farm). About 44,000 are training as metal workers. Close to 41,000 are in electrical courses.

QUESTION: I was injured after I was discharged from the Army. May I get out-patient treatment for the injury?

ANSWER: No. Veterans with non-service-connected disabilities may not receive out-patient treatment from the Veterans Administration.

QUESTION: I have a G. I. home loan, which, according to the present contract, has to be paid in 20 years. Is it possible to have this loan extended to 25 years.

ANSWER: Your lender is the only person who can extend the date on which the loan must be paid. Veterans Administration will guarantee one half, but not more than $4,000, of your home loan if it is to be amortized in 25 years or less.

White sidewall tires, as illustrated, available at extra cost.

This is the one, of course, that you spot at a glance.

This is the one that sends a string of facts racing through your mind – if you know automobiles – the instant you see the name ROADMASTER spelled out on its fender.

Up to one hundred and fifty Fireball horsepower. Eighteen feet big – and spring-colt lively.

Gorgeously finished. Coil-spring cradled on all four wheels. Shod with oversize tires that take extra low pressures for added comfort.

Convenient too – with push-button controls not only for the top, but for door windows and the front-seat adjustment as well.

This, too, is the only passenger car in this country where the power plant does what gears used to do.

Here's the one place you'll find Dynaflow Drive,* in which liquid replaces not only the clutch and manually operated low, second and high, but mechanical gear-changers as well.

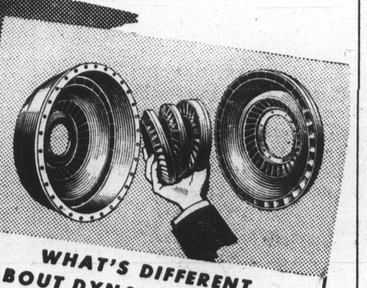
In short – here's liquid ease and smoothness in delightful new degree, through a sort of "magic muscle" that lets you forget about gear-changing practically entirely.

No wonder, then, this car is looked up to.

Looked up to for impressive appearance – looked up to for superlative ability.

Looked up to for what's newest in engineering advances.

If your standards call for a real performer – and for quality a cut above the ordinarily good – specify ROADMASTER when you see your dealer (with or without a car to trade) about getting an order in.



WHAT'S DIFFERENT ABOUT DYNAFLOW DRIVE*?

To an efficient new pump (left above), Buick engineers have added a true turbine (right) and an ingenious new supercharging assembly (in hand) which produce a torque-boosting action in starting and accelerating. The result is the first device on any American passenger car which employs liquid to fill the function of both the clutch and the usual low, second and high gears. The clutch pedal is eliminated and a simple control gives you manual selection of power ranges and direction.

*Optional at extra cost on Roadmaster models only.

BUICK alone has all these features

★ DYNAFLOW DRIVE (Optional, Roadmaster Series)
★ TAPER-THRU STYLING (Super and Roadmaster)
★ VIBRA-SHIELDED RIDE ★ SAFETY-RIDE RIMS
★ HI-POISED FIREBALL POWER
★ ROAD-RITE BALANCE ★ RIGID TORQUE-TUBE
★ QUADRUFLEX COIL SPRINGING
★ SOUND-SORBER TOP LINING (Super and Roadmaster)

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

"What's Your Opinion, Mister?"

Fellow from one of those public opinion polls was in Andy's Garden Tavern, querying Andy's patrons on everything from that "new look" to the next election.

And it occurred to me that there's nothing more typically American than collecting other folks' opinions, as well as giving out with one's own. And from where I sit, it's a mighty healthy habit.

So long as people can discuss both sides of a question that comes up—whether it concerns short skirts versus long, beer compared with cider, or the larger issues of party versus party—we're sure of the individual liberty that has made this country great.

For it isn't differences of opinion that matter. The important thing is tolerance for differences of opinion—whether they affect the right of an individual to vote, to speak his mind, or enjoy a glass of beer. They're all parts of the freedom that we cherish!

Mountain House, located on the summit of the road between Camptonville and Downieville and one of the most prominent hostelries of the mountains in the days of the stage coach, was set fire to by the Camptonville Forest Service Department in a Spring cleaning program. Dan Cole, pioneer and lumberman and later superintendent of the San Francisco Mint at one time conducted the famous road house which was the setting for many interesting and exciting early day scenes. A portion of the barn and an old cabin, originally the toll house, were allowed to remain.

E. G. Waite, formerly of Nevada City, was installed in the Naval Office in San Francisco in the place of Col. G. W. Bowie.

Colonel Thornton, formerly a resident of Nevada City, was counsel for the plaintiff in a location suit between Raymond and Ely at Pische. Mr. Thornton during his Nevada City residency shot at Judge A. C. Niles while the latter was editing the old Nevada City Journal. The cause of the difficulty was a correspondence which appeared in the Journal reflecting upon Thornton and Niles refusal to give the author's name. It was Perley, counsel of the defense in the Raymond-Ely case, who started a difficulty with David C. Broderick which resulted in a duel between Terry and Broderick in which the latter was killed.

DAVIS WRITES ON ALASKA ADMISSION

Editor of the Nugget
Dear Sir:

As speaker and writer for the Foreign Policy Association, I have on several occasions in the past opposed conclusions and tenents of Ernest Gruening, now Governor of Alaska Territory.

But with Governor Gruening's contention that "Alaska must be developed if it is to serve as an effective front in America's National defense" and his further contention that "Alaska's achieving statehood" I am in full accord.

The merits of the arguments against the admittance of Alaska as a state I am now in a position to analyze, but at this critical moment, when consideration of national security should transcend other and lesser issues, we cannot afford to countenance the delay in the preparation of Alaska as an outpost for defense by such matters as political expediency.

The opposition in the Senate to the admission of Alaska is, apparently, largely attributable to the fears of politicians than an addition of two members might upset the Republican-Democratic balance therein. If I am correct in this assumption, this is an untenable and unworthy argument, particularly in the light of the principal issue involved.

Yours truly,
Hal P. Davis

Peacocks—Pooh! Fishes' Color Brighter

LA JOLLA: If a beauty contest were held among animals, fishes would swim off with some of the highest honors.

So writes Dr. Carl L. Hubbs, professor of biology in the University of California's Scripps Institution of Oceanography, author of a section on colors of fishes in the newest edition of "Encyclopedia Britannica."

Some fishes rival the most resplendent tropical birds in gorgeous color ,says Dr. Hubbs. He cites as examples the brilliant blue "neon tetra," a small South American fish prized by home aquarium fans, the flashy redbelly dace of American streams, and brightly silvered ocean bream.

No mere cosmetic whim, this coloring ,however fine and fancy, serves as a protective mechanism of great survival value, since most fishes are colored no more brightly than their usual surroundings.

Commonly greenish, olive, or through most of the visible spectrum from red and orange through brown, the colors of fishes range yellows and greens to blue, with orange-brown and purple mixtures common. Black is usually mixed in to produce dark shades, and white is often combined to yield pink and lavender. Black spots, bars, or streaks disrupt outlines, enabling fish to blend unobtrusively into their surroundings.

Vividly colored fish, such as Chinese and Japanese goldfish, have been developed by selective breding, writes Dr. Hubbs, and aquarists have in recent years bred fishes of many unusual colors, including jet-black.

The Postmaster-General,
Washington, D. C.

Dear Sir:

For the luvvamike will you do something about curbing the issue of postage stamps or at least getting them down to a size so a customer will know when he is buying a three-cent stamp and when he is buying a roll of wall paper, a plastic storm-shutter or a blow-out patch?

I see where a new one is coming out in a few days called the Sutter Gold Discovery stamp, which will be another one a little too big to lift. This on the heels of something called the "Everglades National Park Three" which was about as weird a looking thing to put on a letter that I ever saw. It was too big for any letter I would ever write and rich stomach-ache green. This Sutter stamp, I see, will be deep purple and certainly no smaller. From the pictures of it in the papers I would think it about the size of an old Currier and Ives print, only it has more stuff on it than Currier and Ives would have attempted.

It looks like a summer resort souvenir postal of the type the boosters club would get up and more words than you would find on anything but a billposter for a cigarette or liver pill. In big letters like you would find on yellow newspaper extra proclaiming a Third World War it says:

CALIFORNIA GOLD CENTENNIAL
Sutter's Mill, Coloma
Where James W. Marshall Discovery Started the Rush of Argonauts
1848 U. S. POSTAGE 1948

What is happening among the fellows who design, authorize and print postage stamps in this country today? Is it being done by a lot of refugees from advertisement agencies, experimental lithograph shops and some organization dedicated to ignoring the paper shortage? Has anybody who is a designer of whiskey labels got a hand in this business?

How does Washington reconcile this unnecessary use of paper, mucilage, dyes and inks with its nonstop economy drives and "Don't Waste" campaigns? Huh?

I had a letter the other day that required three three-centers, an airmail and a special, and I had to splice two envelopes together in order to find room for them. Is that right?

Maybe you are concentrating on making life exciting for stamp collectors or just having good clean fun, I wouldn't know. But you are making life miserable for the people who mail letters and just want a simple stamp, not a curio, a kidney plaster or a synthetic Indian blanket.

Have a heart, Elmer.

Making Hay

Even in these days of the atom and high-flying airplanes, "making hay while the sun shines" is still the rule! And with farm labor costs at an all-time high, farmers find the modern sweep rake a fast and economical one-man way of handling hay to the barn or stack. The rake is lowered and raised by the tractor's hydraulic system. It has an automatic unloading device and can handle more than a quarter-ton at a time.

NEWS FROM THE RIDGE

BY ALICE HILL

The Ladies Club met last Wednesday for its monthly chit and chat session at Wood's Hall. A potluck lunch was served, followed by a short business meeting, Mrs. Lillian Wolfe presiding. Games were enjoyed and visiting continued throughout the afternoon. All women are welcomed to come and it gives us a good opportunity to become acquainted with our neighbors alog the Ridge.

Tuesday, April 20, Mrs. Thelma Gallez drove us, Mrs. Erma Coleman and Miss Alice Hill, to Grass Valley to attend the Hi-Jinks presented each year by the Home Department of the Farm Centers of Nevada County. I have heard that the modern generation has lost the art of cooking, but if grandma could cook better than the present ladies of the Farm bureau, I am afraid it would be out of this world. Mrs. Phyllis Butz of Celestial Valley also attended. After the meeting we dropped in to see the Butz' new grandson, Master David Gates, at the Gates home.

The regular monthly meeting of the P. T. A. was held at the North San Juan schoolhouse Friday. The president of the P. T. A., Mrs. Martha Ellsworth, presided at the business meeting. Mr. Walter A. Carlson was speaker of the evening. Mr. Conway, Sr., led the community singing with young Conway at the piano. Mr. and Mrs. Art Gallez. Miss Lois McQuinn and Miss Alice Hill had charge of entertainment and refreshments.

The Chamber of Commerce of North San Juan, Camptonville and vicinity held its monthly dance at Twamley Hall with a good attendance from Camptonville.

Tuesday night, friends of Wright Colman gathered at Woods Hall. Mrs. Colman had quite a time to get her husband out on a bad night when there was nothing going on, but we surprised him beginning the evening by singing "Happy Birthday". We played group games planned by Mrs. Colman's mother, Mrs. Lillian Wolfe and danced to the music of Waid Oden and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Stuart, followed by refreshments including salads, relishes, mountains of sandwiches, coffee and cakes and an especially beautiful birthday cake baked and decorated with pink candy roses by Mrs. Colman. All were having such a good time, we hated to break up at midnight.

Wednesday evening at Twamley Hall the teachers of our school presented the pupils in the plays "The Constitution Comes to Life" and "America—The Land Where All Are Free." It was too bad the weather was so disagreeable, as many more would liked to have attended. The children did splendidly. The teachers are to be complimented for their efforts. The P. T. A. served coffe, cocoa and cookies.

Thursday night the Chamber of Commerce held a directors meeting to discuss future plans for Twamley Hall and the Cherry Festival and Centennial to be held in June.

homes in 10 years. He wished to know how the policy of stringent conservation of lumber tied in with this.

Kenneth Stevenson, local businessman, inquired as to policies of reforestation on the part of the Forest Service and the lumbermen's protective association. The concensus of opinion was that the association was in accord with the government's policy on replanting and reforestation, and when the appropriate time arrived, would seek aid in expanding it.

Doc Corson, forest service replanting expert, explained that lack of funds at present limited the organization to replanting freshly burned areas. He stated that 119,000 trees have been planted in the area burned at Bloody Run.

Another meeting of the Lumbermen's Protective Organization will be held in two weeks at the Veterans Mmorial Building.

Robert Schiffner, Nevada City attorney, is co-chairman of the Board of Directors of the organization and John Sbaffi is Secretary.

words; "Socrates asked questions, drank hemlock and died."

Cryptic eloquence is a rare commodity, like consistency, it is "a gem of purest ray serene," but perchance from the floods of language, which if not soulful, still threatened to engulf us, some glittering gems of wit and wisdom, may emerge and take their places side by side with unforgetable treasures which from time to time come and remain part of our English speech.

I Wonder what Father Time thinks of the manner in which his precious hours are shifted about to suit the convenience of mere man. Daylight saving may be necessary, but it is most confusing; the clock in the steeple strikes one, but you can't believe it. You have to stop and solve a problem; is it eastern standard time, eastern daylight saving or western Warren saving? By the time the truth becomes apparent, you miss your train and the hours seem as pixies, whose only purpose it is to trick and bemuse you.

Uncle Silas says; "Every man has a right to tell his story, so I do not refuse to lend my ears, but when asked to lend my mind, I utter a short and emphatic, 'NO'."

The fire department turned out all of its equipment and about 25 firemen to battle flames and succeeded in saving neighboring homes, including Macari's, but not the barn. There was a small amount of hay in the barn. The building is a total loss and the estimated value was $2,000.

PREVENT BRAKE WEAR

Continuous heavy pressure on the automobiles brake pedal creates excessive heat which in turn causes rapid wear, cautions the California State Automobile Association. Intermittent application of the brake is safer and makes brake lining last longer.

Historical Society Notes

THE STORY OF SWEETLAND

by Ada Perry Landsburg

EDITOR'S NOTE: Ada Perry Landsburg was born in the little town of Sweetland, January 30, 1859. She was the daughter of John and Lydia Perry, and spent many years there as well as in Relief Hill, North Bloomfield, and Nevada City. She and her husband moved to Kuna, Idaho, to be near her daughter, Linda. Some years after her husbnd passed way, she had the misfortune to fall, and has been bedridden for more than ten years.

SCHOOL LIBRARY

The beginning of a School Library ws in 1867 or 1868, when a number of books were purchased. Books for girls, Prudy Series, seven or eight were very inspiring for children as the heroine furnished an example of girlhood at its best. A like number of boy's books whose author we forget. Some of the names of this series were "Hope and Have", "Haste and Waste", "Do and Dare" etc. all furnishing an inspiration to boys to be careful, persevering, ambitious, etc. [Editor's Note: This may have been the Horatio Alger's Series.) For the older boys and girls, some of the best works of fiction at that time "John Halifax Gentleman", "The Lamplighters", "Beulah" and several volumes of Dickens, and other writers of poems of that day. In all, fifty or seventy-five books. In later years there was a large collection of books in the School Library as a few books were added each year.

A fire a few years ago, swept through the old town which destroyed all the buildings in the town, but one we are told, and one other home, the J. S. Brown's home on Buckeye Hill.

Among the buildings destroyed was the school house on the hill built in 1863, and the schoolhouse which was built in 1872. In the early days the school books were furnished by the parents. The children furnished the wherewith- all for their amusements; balls, bats, jumping ropes. etc. Sometime in the early seventies, the school board gave us a croquet set, and later a second set.

CHURCH

Sweetland could never boast of having built a Church, for she never had one, but we cannot remember when we did not have services. Our people with few exceptions, were not religious, though we believe some had been members of churches before coming to California. In 1862 the Winan's family from Piqua, Ohio, came and bought their religion with them. The mother was sickly and unable to do much, but the daughters and their father, were very helpful in Church work. Brother Stephen Winans was a Methodist. We think he must have organized the Sunday School, and must have been the first Superintendent, the first at least which the writer remembers. As he was the only man in the town who claimed to be religious, he was more or less persecuted. However he was undaunted nd went on his way rejoicing, leading the Sunday School, entertaining the minister, and doing whatever he could for the work of the Church. He was a good old man who, as a grandson expressed it in later years, "walked and talked with God."

He was assisted in the work of the Church and Sunday School by Mrs. E. B. Ransome, (nee Nellie Cummings) and he husband, and Mrs. C. E. Tabor, and sister, Miss Ora Miller. All were very helpful until a later date, they transferred their membership to the Church at N. San Juna. Church services which were quite irregular especially in the winter months, and Sunday School were held in the school house not too well attended by the "grown ups," but quite well attended by the young people and children.

Our Pastors resided at N. San Juan and had a circuit, riding on horseback as far down the ridge as Rough and Ready. Services were usually held on Sunday afternoon, sometimes on weekday evenings.

When a very small girl, I attended a service with mother and heard my first sermon, part of which I still remember, a very small art, but very important. The time of meeting was Sunday afternoon. The Pastor's name was Hamilton. When we arrived we found the Pastor already there, seated behind the teacher's desk, waiting for the congregation to come. A few women were there and two men. Brother Winans and a rather eccentric individual, named Elijah Pease, who claimed to be a reformed drunkard, but at that time took all the credit of reforming to himself, did not claim to belong to any Church, but always attended the services around had a contribution ready to put therein. Services began as now with prayer and hymns, but minus the help of instrumental music, for there were no music instruments in the town save a violin nd banjo, used only for dances. After the hymns, and prayers, came of course the Scripture reading and text, neither of which do we remember, but think it must have been "Remember the Sabbath Day to Keep it Holy." All the men of the town had gone to N. San Juan to a horse race. There were only three men left in the town. The two who were at Church and J. W. Woods who owned a hotel and store.

Looking back we realize it was we could not remember the text, we understood that God's laws must be obeyed, and the question asked by the Pastor, so often that day in his sermon, we knew referred to the breaking of God's laws. The question asked was "Will it pay?

Often we have looked back to that day, and when tempted, have asked ourselves the question, "Will it pay?," and quite as often, it has kept us from doing wrong.

Two other early preachers whose names we remember, was a man by the name of Baker and another by the name of Wickers. (Have forgotten their initials.) To all who may read the History, we would say, "Give your children the opportunity of hearing God's word preached, the benefit of the Sunday School, and the kind of Readers we had in the early days of Sweetland School many a heartache later on. Train up a child in the way he should go, and when he is old, he will not depart therefrom."

KEEP WINDSHIELD CLEAN

Telling a motorist to keep his windshield clean seems rather out of place, and it is possible that some might take offense at being advised to do so obvious a thing, declare officials of National Automobile Club's Public Safety Department. Yet. even a casual survey will prove that there still is a very definite need to remind the average car owner that unless his windshield is kept clean he reduces the value of all the safety factors that have been built into his car.

she is so isolement—lonely you call it." They had had a long talk and, while the woman had not told her any of her history, or why she was leading so strange a life, she had learned enough to know that her solitude and isolation were not of her own choice. She said her work was really only play, that her companion did not ask her to toil, that her masculine dress was donned for convenience, and that they were making money and would go away when the claim was worked out. "There is the grand mistarie," said Marie. "Oh, no, she is not ze wife of ze man and they hide away from ze world; more I do not know; she is for to keep her mouth shut, as you say in Engleesh. Some time there will be ze explosion, pouf! and then we will see." It is a queer case, but there is no call for outside interference that I can judge. I think that Marie is mistaken about her being a prisoner, as she has plenty of chances to go away if she wants to. I warned Marie not to talk about it, as it might make a lot of trouble for the couple when there was no call for it.

For the first time in American history a generation is arising which has no God and what is more feels no need of one.

The blame lies squarely in the laps of the American parent who owes his child a knowledge of God whose light always shines for those who seek it.

Let us never forget a civilization survives or perishes on the basis of its religious belief.

Insure the preservation of American ideals by taking—not sending—your child to Sunday School.

National Sunday School Week will be observed April 12-18. Sponsored by the Laymen's National Committee, National Headquarters Vanderbilt Hotel, New York 16.

DIM—OR DUMB?

Failure to dim headlights in night traffic is a violation of the law as well as evidence of dim intelligence on the part of the offending driver, points out the California State Automobile Association.

Cloth of wool, silk, flax and cotton was known to the most ancient people of whom there is any knowledge.

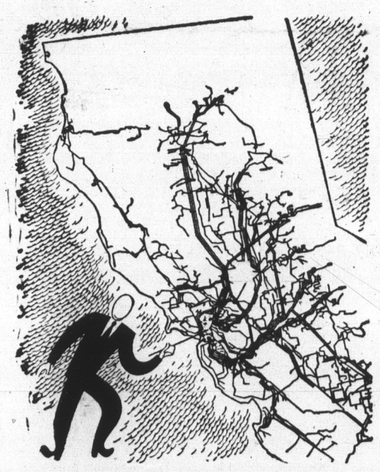
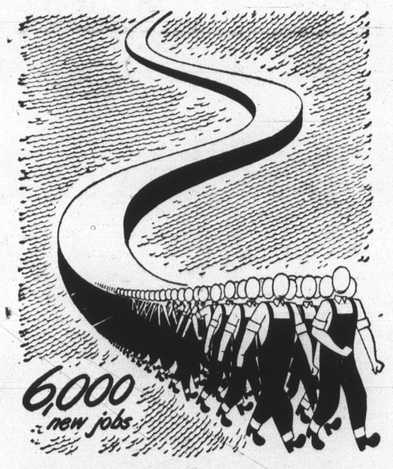
Quick picture of America's biggest power-building program

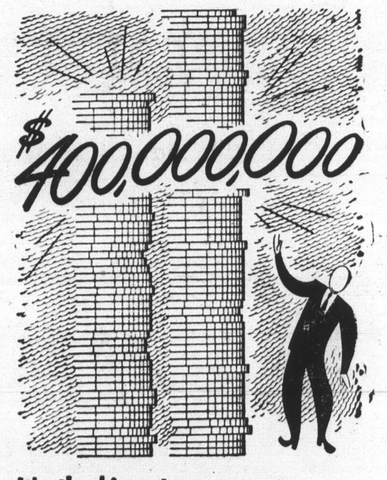
In three and a half short years... between now and the end of 1951... P. G. and E. will add nearly two million horsepower in generating capacity. To help you understand how big this program really is, here are some comparisons.



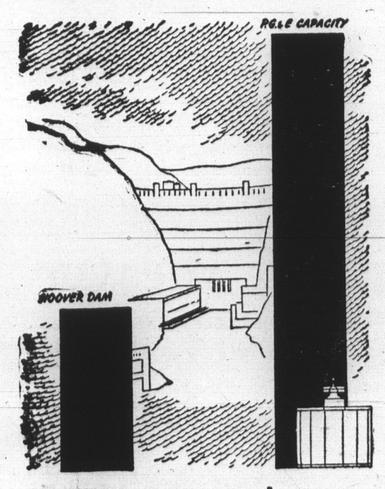
More power than was needed to meet all the pre-war requirements of Northern and Central California will be added.



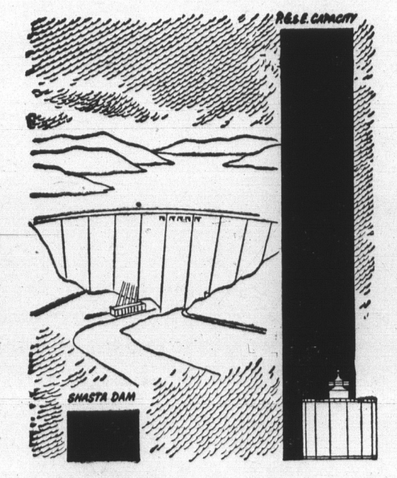
The program is creating jobs for thousands of men. The estimated peak work force will exceed 6,000.



It's the biggest program of any electrical utility in America today, costing more than $400,000,000. It is now proceeding at more than $10,000,000 a month.



Added to previous totals, the new power will give P. G. and E. a generating capacity about three times that of Hoover Dam.



Or 8 times greater than Shasta Dam. This program, now in its third year, is going full speed ahead!

New Plant Schedule

It takes time to build power plants...more than three years to build a steam generating plant. Like everyone, we were delayed by wartime restrictions and postwar building problems. Some of the orders for equipment have been held up many months. But, we're making steady progress now. Here's a schedule of major new plants and completion dates, which will be met unless there are further unforeseen delays.

PLANT	CAPACITY		COMPLETION DATE
Kern Steam—First Unit	101,000 horsepower		Spring 1948
Electra Hydro	133,000	"	Summer 1948
Station "P" Steam	298,000	"	Winter 1948
West Point Hydro	21,000	"	Winter 1948
Colgate Hydro	40,000	"	Summer 1949
Cresta Hydro	101,000	"	Winter 1949
Kern Steam—Second Unit	134,000	"	Spring 1950
Rock Creek Hydro	169,000	"	Summer 1950
One Steam Unit	150,000	"	Summer 1950
Five Steam Units	150,000	" each	Year 1951

Work never stops on our power-building program
